COLLEGE OF HUMAN ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENCES
Distinguished Faculty Service Award

This award recognizes a College of Human Environmental Sciences faculty member whose service has distinguished him/her as an exemplar in this area of the faculty role. This award is intended for the faculty member whose service goes above and beyond that expected as part of their faculty duties, one for whom service is an integral part of their academic lives. Service can be to the department or school, the college, the university, and to the community (local, state, and national). Particularly valued is service at more than one of these levels that contributes to the betterment of human lives and the promotion of social justice or reduction in social and environmental problems, in keeping with the mission of HES as a college.

Eligibility
Tenured and tenure-track faculty, non-tenure track members of the faculty, as well as employees of HES Extension, as long as the nominee is a full time employee of HES (75% or greater appointment in HES).
